After retiring from the United States Army with over 20 years of distinguished service, Gabriel brought an extensive background in tactical and technical disciplines, with deep expertise in Counterintelligence and Technical Counterintelligence (TCI). He led multiple TCI assignments at the highest levels within the Department of Defense, accumulating significant experience managing, directing, supervising, and executing Technical Surveillance Countermeasures (TSCM) investigations.

Gabriel has supported national leaders—including General Officers, Senior Executives, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the U.S. Secretary of Defense—by providing critical Senior Official Travel support and high-level In-Conference Monitoring services. His ability to deliver tailored TCI support at every echelon, combined with his adaptive leadership, keen technical skill, and problem-solving acumen, enables him to address the ever-evolving landscape of technological threats and solutions.

In addition to his military and technical achievements, Gabriel is the owner of Hood Nerd LLC, a clothing design company where he holds two trademarks. His business insight and creative vision have contributed to the company's growth and unique offerings. As a dedicated member of Kappa Lambda Chi Military Fraternity Incorporated, Gabriel has held prominent positions such as National Director of Inductions and Chairman of the Election Committee. As Secretary, he continues to author organizational documents and policies that strengthen governance and organizational integrity, ensuring that the fraternity remains at the forefront of leadership and service.
